

2023 Fine Arts Report

Section 1003.4995, Florida Statutes, requires the Commissioner of Education to publish an annual report that describes student access to and participation in fine arts courses and provides information about educators who instruct fine arts; facilities where the instruction is taking place; and the manner in which the curricular content is provided. Arts courses include Dance, Music, Theatre and Visual Arts. Delivery methods for fine arts content vary across districts and schools in Florida.

The 2023 Fine Arts Report has been collated into a spreadsheet from survey data provided by districts throughout the 2022-2023 school year. Specifically, this report utilizes data collected during the department's Survey 2 collection from October 2022. The spreadsheet is organized into four tabs: students, educators, classroom and content delivery.

Students

- The "Rpt 1 - Students 2223 FS2" tab indicates the number of public-school students, per Florida district, who were enrolled in any arts course.
 - Please note, if a student was enrolled in a course at a different school during the October survey, they are counted multiple times in this report. Therefore, these data may differ slightly from other enrollment counts that represent a single student.
- Additional columns included in this tab identify the total number of students enrolled in each of the four fine arts disciplines: music, dance, visual arts and theatre.

Educators

- The "Rpt 2 - Educators 2223 FS2" tab indicates the number of fine arts classes taught in each school district.
- Additionally, this tab includes data specific to the number of certified educators providing instruction in fine arts courses.

Classroom

- The "Rpt 3 - Classroom 2223 FS2" tab tallies the Room Design category and total number of discipline specific classroom spaces for districts.

Content Delivery

- The "Rpt 4 - Content Delivery 2223 FS2" tab indicates the content delivery utilized by each public school for the four fine art discipline as established by Florida's State Academic Standards.
- 7 content delivery types have been identified for the purpose of this survey:
 - Direct Instruction: examples include but are not limited to lectures or demonstrations.
 - Performance-based projects: examples include but are not limited to presentations, portfolios, and performances.
 - Collaborative Projects/Peer Review: examples include but are not limited to group projects and critiques.
 - Independent/Self-Directed Study.
 - Purchased Curriculum.
 - Online Course (FLVS or Other Provider).
 - Integrated to Another Course.

The Fine Arts Report is developed through collaboration between the Division of PK-12 Public Schools and the Division of Accountability, Research and Measurement.
