*Ask teachers to think of books that they can tie in to their curriculum that week. Griffin will be there for lesson plan support the week before on a specific day

Explanations:

Students Guessing Teachers Reading Game: We will have pictures of 15-20 teachers holding their favorite YA book up to their eyes. The students will cast their predictions of who the teachers are.

Book Swap: Mrs. D and Griffin will add books to both tables to start the swap. Then students and teachers can stop by the MC in between classes to swap one of their books for a book on the table.

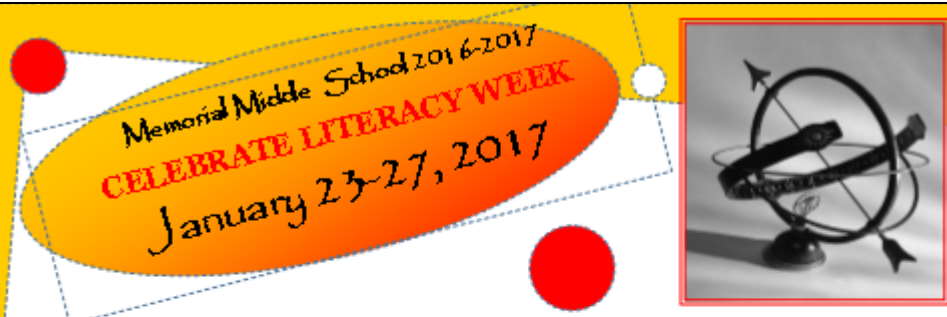

Redesigned Book Cover – We will advertise the week prior to have students redesign any book cover from the media center. We will have the original book cover and the redesigned cover on taped to a box and the students will be able to vote during lunch for the cover they think is the best redesigned cover.

Literacy Week 2017 Plans for the Week

- Monday Kick-Off – read a short story to faculty and students on the morning show. Everyone watches a video on the Holocaust to kick off our “One Book, One School” during homeroom for 20 minutes. We will be reading a book from MyOn relating to the Holocaust which will be chosen soon which ties to the 8th grade study on the Holocaust. This book will benefit all students because they will be studying the Holocaust at some point and it’s important to teach our students about our history.
- Secret Genre – students caught reading the secret genre of the day go in a drawing for a gift (one drawing a day) I will e-mail teachers the genre of the day each morning. TEACHERS PLEASE REMEMBER THE GENRE EACH DAY SO THAT YOU CAN KEEP A RUNNING LIST OF STUDENTS THAT CAN BE E-MAILED TO ME OR SENT TO ME ON A PIECE OF NOTE PAPER.
- Teachers and Students on the Morning Show will tell about a book they are reading – Tue-Fri
- Students in 7th/8th grade Reading will have the option to do a graphic book report for our “mural” which will display the Martinez “Best Reads”
- Thursday - Teachers can dress up as a character from their favorite book which can even be their favorite children’s book. The best dressed teacher will win a prize.

Our 4th annual Book-A-Palooza Celebration to Foster the love of reading for life!!!!

The BOOK-A-PALOOZA competition reinforces common core standards: Story elements, Literary Devices, Analysis of Fiction & Non-Fiction, Speaking & Listening skills.

Students will "show-off" their favorite book, individually, in small groups or by class, using Tri-fold Storyboards, Poetry Towers, Story Boxes on a String, or Shoebox Scenes.

They can Dress in Character to: give a book talk, briefly explain what happened in the book, recite a few lines, and /or read a great scene (live performances on the stage)

Each period LA & reading classes will rotate through the MPR to see the displays.

Some pictures from last year are attached.
