The CIL continued to charge consumers a fee for transportation services despite DVR’s failure to develop guidelines.	We recommend DVR develop guidelines for charging consumers for the cost of IL services or disallow the practice.	Response as of August 8, 2016: WIOA changed the definition of “Center for Independent Living” by adding the words “regardless of age or income”. The addition of this language brings the legality of financial testing/participation into question. We have sought clarification from our federal partner, the Administration on Community Living, but until final regulations are published we won’t know the answer. In the meantime, CILs are forbidden from charging consumers with disabilities for services provided with VR funds. All CILs have been notified of this prohibition, including via a “Technical Assistance Reminder – Charging Consumers for Services” email on March 14, 2011. Space Coast CIL was also specifically reminded of this prohibition in the findings of the Rehabilitation Services Administration Compliance Review Report dated October 14, 2014, which were reinforced by VR during the site visit. Space Coast CIL was most recently reminded of the prohibition via email on July 6, 2016.	The new Contract is now in place. Because of the delay in executing new contracts, the March site visit has been rescheduled for August 2018.	Contract Completed Site Visit: August 2018

		Response as of February 8, 2017: As a result of WIOA on November 28, 2016 the final rule outlining the amendments to the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which transferred the administrative duties for Centers for Independent Living from the Federal Department of Education Rehabilitation Services Administration to Health and Human Services’ Administration on Community Living, went into to effect. The amendments provided limited direction to CILs on the development of fee for service policies. The language stated, “The final rule does not address the use of fee-for-service models, though we encourage CILs to consider how to ensure that any application of such a model is accomplished in a way that is consistent [with independent living philosophy]”. Response as of August 8, 2017: To date the Administration on Community Living has provided no guidance regarding financial means testing. To address this issue Vocational Rehabilitation has inserted the following language in the contract template for Centers for Independent Living to begin being used October 2017:

Because there continues to be no guidance by the authorizing agency, ACL, VR continues to enforce the contractual prohibition charging fees for service as outlined in all CIL contracts (see below). “The Center shall not require financial needs testing or financial participation by consumers of independent living services funded under the State Plan for Independent Living (SPIL) unless or until guidelines are developed in collaboration with the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation

The CIL did not meet employment requirements.	We recommend DVR provide technical assistance as needed to ensure the CIL remains eligible for state and federal assistance.	Response as of August 8, 2016: In March, the independent living director and two performance improvement consultants visited the center and provided extensive technical assistance, including reviewing current policies and process mapping. Response as of February 8, 2017: VR will continue to provide technical assistance regarding the qualifications of staff and will include a review of staff qualifications based on accepted levels of expertise established by the field as part of periodic monitoring.
